Description

We are pleased to present this distinguished country property located in a privileged rural setting. This rustic house, part of a larger old manor house, offers a total land area of 480,000 square meters, characterized by its natural beauty and dryland farming soil, primarily dedicated to almond trees, olive trees, and carob trees.

The extensive land not only provides a tranquil and private environment but also presents an exceptional opportunity to expand and diversify agricultural production. With the possibility of increasing the number of trees in production, this estate offers significant potential for those interested in actively exploiting the land and increasing its agricultural yield.

The residence encompasses over 800 square meters of construction, of which more than 200 square meters are dedicated to habitable spaces, where a family currently resides. Additionally, an additional part of the property is designated for multiple uses, such as a corral and storage. However, there is the possibility of...
