

Description

Traditional country estate with Andalusian soul near Ronda

A few kilometres from Ronda, near the Roman ruins of Acinipo and with the Sierra de Grazalema as a backdrop, lies this beautiful estate with authentic Andalusian character, surrounded by olive groves, holm oaks, and fruit trees, with the possibility of creating a small private vineyard. The 2-hectare property features a stream at its border, two wells, computerised automatic irrigation, and a charming grotto with a natural water source.

The main farmhouse retains the elegance of tradition combined with modern conveniences. Through the imposing wooden gate, you enter the reception hall, from which two paths open: towards the main suite with a dressing room, en-suite bathroom, and independent entrance, and towards the music room or additional bedroom, guest toilet, and the spacious lounges with fireplace, double-height ceilings, and exposed beams. Beyond the bright windows that flank the exit, there are the porch and the gardens. On this same level, we find...
